Media Reporting

(U) Indian Restaurant Explosion in Mississauga, Canada, Wounds 15
Fifteen people were injured by an intentional explosion at an Indian restaurant in a Toronto suburb Thursday night, authorities said. Police were hunting two men who "detonated an improvised explosive device" before fleeing the eatery in Mississauga, Ontario. "We have no indication to call it a hate crime or any kind of terrorism act," Peel Regional Police Sgt. Matt Bertram said. The blast at the Bombay Bhel restaurant was reported at 10:30 p.m. ET, a half hour after closing time. Three people were critically injured, according to police. Twelve others suffered minor injuries. Source: NBC News

(U) DOJ Confirms Seizure Of Internet Domain To Thwart Cyber Attack
The U.S. Justice Department (DOJ) announced Wednesday that it seized an internet domain, largely thwarting the potential weaponization of a network of more than half a million web-connected devices across the globe, experts say. The network of infected devices, or botnet, was one of the largest of its kind and capable of intelligence gathering as well as disruptive denial-of-service attacks, which could have cut off internet access to hundreds of thousands of people. The botnet is said in government court filings to be under the control of the Russian hackers known as the Sofacy Group. Private cybersecurity firms have said the group is also known as Fancy Bear and likely affiliated with Russian military intelligence. The domain acted as a reference center where infected devices would "phone home" to take malicious marching orders, said an FBI official. "By seizing that domain, those bots now are talking to the FBI as opposed to the original malicious controller," the official said. The FBI-controlled server will capture the IP addresses of affected devices and a private-sector partner group will work to scrub and restore them. Source: WTVR News

(U) 'ISIS-supporting' UK mosque teacher 'urged followers to inject supermarket ice cream with poison and posted snap of Prince George with warning "even the royal family will not be left alone"
An internet terrorist urged his followers to inject poison into supermarket ice-creams and attack Prince George at school, a court heard today. Husnain Rashid, 31, provided advice on how a 'lone wolf' terrorist could carry out an attack with poison, chemicals, bombs and knives, prosecutors claim. He was also in communication with a known ISIS fighter in Syria and ran his own internet channel, Woolwich Crown Court heard. Jurors heard how the defendant believed the only alternative to fighting jihad in the Middle East was to launch attacks in western countries. Rashid allegedly posted a photograph of Prince George outside Thomas' School, Battersea, with a black silhouette of Jihadi fighters with the message: 'even the royal family will not be left alone.'
